L.A. CHAPTER OPENS BUNCHY CARTER FREE HEALTH CLINIC

The Apprentice Bunchy Carter Free Clinic opened Saturday, December 27th, at 9:00 a.m., despite the measures various categories of pigs had attempted to use to see that this clinic for the People never opened. The clinic was originally scheduled to open in another part of the Southern California Chapter's Central Headquarters (4111 S. Central Ave.) on that day; floors had been sanded, walls had been scraped, plumbing installed and tile was about to be laid - that is, before December 26th - the day of the Vietnam-like, search and destroy attack on the Central Headquarters.

After that, lingering tear gas slowed down our work. Nevertheless, the people, everyone, worked hard to re-build and repair the building for the opening day. The two people helping us to coordinate things, Marie Branch, R.N., and Terry Kupers, M.D., worked especially hard, getting a building permit, organizing other nurses and doctors to give their services, seeing to it that leaflets were made to tell the people of the opening of the clinic. Despite the holocaust the pigs had brought down on the building, we still continued to work.

About three or four days before the 27th, the pigs' slumlord, Maurice Rosen and his brother-in-law, Nathan Golden, told us to "quit 't's promises", and had the marshalls serve the notice (tacked on the door). We saw that there was no point in fixing up a place that would no longer be ours and the people's; we therefore looked for other locations. But there was no time. So two men were brought down to sit out in front of the building at 4111 S. Central and we put up a sign.

About fifteen medical professionals came to offer their services. Although the weather was cold and the wind was blowing, and there was no real indoor facility in which to begin offering the people a much-needed free health facility, and tear gas lingered (after 2 weeks) in the area, the Apprentice Bunchy Carter Free

ELDRIDGE CLEAVER AND BUNCHY CARTER

Message from Eldridge to The Victors

I'd just like to say that those brothers and sisters who are prisoners in L.A. will survive to fight in the final phase of the struggle.

Those brothers and sisters in L.A. who are facing those pigs, I say that they saved the Party; and they shot the whole liberation struggle to a new level and people are relating to it all over the planet. And I know I'm very happy that they did that cause they set a beautiful example to start the New Year.
