

ALERT! MUMIA'S SON TRANSFERRED TO ANOTHER FACILITY!

by: Monique Code

For the last 8 years, our warrior comrade Jamal Hart has fought long and hard in the battle to win his own freedom so he can come home and push to free his father. When I went to see him on Saturday, October 16th, Jamal was in good spirits and still strong mentally, physically, and spiritually. For those of you who are not aware, Jamal was given an involuntary transfer to another facility. Here's the latest update surrounding this "transfer".

Three weeks ago, I received a letter from Jamal to inform me that he will be transferred from FCI Fairton to FCI Ray Brook in Ray Brook, New York. This facility and the town itself are located between Saranac Lake and Lake Placid in Upstate New York. Ray Brook is 5 hours from New York City and two and a half hours from Albany. It's also 1 hour from the Canadian border. For those of you who are familiar with this area, it's near the Adirondack Mountains.

Last Tuesday, I found out via the Federal Bureau of Prisons website that he was transferred to USP Lewisburg. The reason was that he was held in a "holdover unit". In English, they held him in the hole upon his arrival. Through many phone calls to the facility, the officers I spoke with stated that Lewisburg was not his final destination. He arrived at FCI Ray Brook on October 21st. He checked in with his family and he's just fine.

For those of you who have loved ones doing Federal time and you do not know their whereabouts, you can go to the following website: www.bop.gov. There you can go to the "Inmate Locator" link and enter either the register number or their first and last name. Once you hit enter, it will bring up all the info you need to know. Jamal himself stated this fact and it's so true: "With the Feds, you never know: they can tell an inmate they're going to one place and then they end up in a whole other place." The website is always an excellent resource for the most updated information.

In any event, FCI Fairton has confessed: They were not successful in breaking his spirit. Jamal continues to resist and does not allow his current environment to get the best of him. He continues to do his own legal work and he does try to attend college classes when he's not harassed. He continues to build his strength as a man who will never compromise with this system on any terms.

Although we pray for all of those held behind enemy lines to come home, you can best believe that Jamal's liberation from inside these concentration camps will certainly be a key victory to savor. He would love to hear from you so please drop him a line and show a brother some love.
